There are hundreds of locations around San Antonio where we can let AA literature carry the message to the alcoholic who is still suffering:

Doctor's offices Church clergy offices Libraries Counseling centers

Medical and nursing schools School counselors Hospitals VA facilities

Treatment centers Shelters, Crisis Centers, Hotels

Information paperwork available at the Central Service Office Bookstore. This is a PI/CPC Program.

Member's Corner: We asked our members to share their memories about what a $ 1 would buy back then...and today. Email us your thoughts!

Paul A. from the Serendipity Group says.....

A gallon of gas in 2000 was $1.30 - A gallon of gas in 2016 is $2.28

A Movie ticket in 2000 wa $5.06 - A Movie ticket in 2016 is $8.34

Cell Phone bill in 2000
$40.24—in 2016 $99.00

Your $ does not go very far today. Not as far as it did in year 2000.

Neither does the Central Service Office dollar. We can't buy the Big Book at the same cost..

Help us keep the cost of the Big Book down by joining the Birthday Club!

Email us your price comparison for the Nightcap. In 1950 movies were 15 cents. Not today!

The San Antonio Archives

A special fund has been set-up for the San Antonio Archives to purchase a stained glass art piece for the entry of the Archives Room.

The stained glass artisan will work with Board member Sheila S. and the Archives Committee to determine the layout for the artwork.

The special fund was created by AA members who wished to participate in this project financially. All monies received will be kept in an account as designated funding for this project.

If you are interested in participating, you may contact Sheila S. or call the Bookstore or Office and talk with Tomi.

To view the artists work drop by the Bookstore, we have one piece at the jewelry counter. This work of art is by Eddie C.. Eddie has donated his artwork to Weekend in SA Art Auction in the past. This is an ongoing project.

Anonymity

In Alcoholics Anonymous we talk a lot about anonymity. In the next three issues of the Nightcap we will share with our members a writing that Bill W. did for the January 1946 Grapevine. This is a long article and we will present the entire article in a three-part series. Please note that all Grapevine articles require permission to reprint.

A Tradition Born of Our Anonymity

AA's Traditions, Bill wrote, were "hammered out on the anvil of experience." Here, from an early Grapevine, Bill shares some of the experience that led to the adoption of our two anonymity Traditions - From the January 1946 Grapevine

Alcoholics Anonymous and what it has done for us. We also wish to lose the fear of admitting that we are alcoholics. Though we earnestly request reporters not to disclose our identities, we frequently speak before semipublic gatherings under our right names. We wish to impress audiences that our alcoholism is a sickness we no longer fear to discuss before anyone. So far, so good.

If, however, we venture beyond this limit, we shall surely lose the principle of anonymity forever. If every AA felt free to publish his own name, picture, and story, we would soon be launched upon a vast orgy of personal publicity which obviously could have no limit whatever. Isn't this where, by the strongest kind of attraction, we must draw the line?

If I were asked to outline a tradition for anonymity, it might run as follows:

1. It should be the privilege of each individual AA to cloak himself with as much personal anonymity as he desires. His fellow AAs should respect his wishes and help guard whatever status he wants to assume.
2. Conversely, the individual AA ought to respect the feeling of his local group as to their anonymity. If his group wishes to be more anonymous than he does, he ought to go along with them until they change their views.
3. With very rare exceptions, it ought to be a national tradition that no member of Alcoholics Anonymous shall ever feel free to publish his name or picture (in connection with his Alcoholics Anonymous activities) in any medium of public circulation, or by radio. Of course, this should not restrict the free use of his name in other public activities, provided he does not disclose his AA connection.

If, for some extraordinary reason, for the good of AA as a whole, a member thinks it desirable to completely drop his anonymity, he should do so only after consulting the older members of his local group. If he is to make a nationwide public appearance as an AA, the matter ought to be referred to our Central Office.^[2]

Of course, I am not for a moment thinking of these statements as rules or regulations; they merely suggest what would seem to be sound tradition for the future. In the last analysis, every AA will have to search his own conscience.

If we are going to evolve a clear-cut tradition about anonymity, we shall do it only through our usual process, viz:--trial and error, much discussion, collective judgment, and common consent. That we shall eventually come up with the right answers, I can have no doubt.

Today, there are more than 25,000 AA groups worldwide.

Now known as the AA General Service Office. Later AA experience led to the conclusion--which Bill summed up in Tradition Eleven--that public anonymity breaks are never desirable, for any reason.

Bill W.

The end of this article...Thank you Bill for sharing.

Tradition Seven (long form)

The A.A. groups themselves ought to be fully supported by the voluntary contributions of their own members. We think that each group should soon achieve this ideal; that any public solicitation of funds using the name of Alcoholics Anonymous is highly dangerous, whether by groups, clubs, hospitals, or other outside agencies; that acceptance of large gifts from any source, or of contributions carrying any obligation whatever, is unwise. Then too, we view with much concern those A.A. treasuries which continue, beyond prudent reserves, to accumulate funds for no stated A.A. purpose. Experience has often warned us that nothing can so surely destroy our spiritual heritage as futile disputes over property, money, and authority.
