The Speaker CD's section in the bookstore has over 40 different AA members stories on CD, as well as the Big Book, Twelve & Twelve, and the Grapevine Stories.

You never have to travel alone. Take a member with you, on your CD player or cassette player.

Annual Calendar Of Events:

The Central Service Office will begin to maintain a calendar of events of AA Group events, AA service related events, AA conferences and other AA related activities in the San Antonio Metropolitan Area. This list will be available to any AA member, group or other AA entities.

Tradition One (long form)

Each member of Alcoholics Anonymous is a small part of a great whole. A.A. must continue to live or most of us will surely die. Hence our common welfare comes first. But individual welfare follows close afterward.

Permission to reprint The AA Grapevine, Inc., copyrighted material [in this publication, organization, or website] does not in any way imply affiliation with or endorsement by either Alcoholics Anonymous or The AA Grapevine, Inc.

Interview With the Author of "Doctor, Alcoholic, Addict

First in a series of articles on authors of Big Book stories

Dr. Paul's story, "Doctor, Alcoholic, Addict" is published in the Third Edition of the Big Book; his remarks on acceptance, which appear on pages 449 and 450, have been helpful to many AA members over the years. This interview was conducted by telephone to Dr. Paul's home in California.

How did you come to write the story that's in the Big Book?

The editor of the Grapevine--a woman named Paula C.--was also the chairperson of the committee to review the stories. She wrote to tell me that the magazine was going to use an article I'd written on why doctors shouldn't prescribe pills for alcoholics. So she knew my writing a little bit and she asked me if I had a dual problem and would I be willing to write an article about it for consideration in the Big Book. My reaction to that was the same as my reaction when it was suggested I come to AA--I thought it was one of the dumbest ideas I'd ever heard and I ignored her letter. Later on she called and asked for the article, and I lied and said I hadn't had time to write it. She extended the deadline and called me a second time. I had a gal working in the office with me who was in the program, and she thought it would be nice to have typed a story that might end up in the Big Book, so she said to me, "You write it, I'll type it, and we'll send it in." So that's what we did. But by that time they had done another printing of the Second Edition, and I thought, Fine, that means they won't use it. But Paula said she liked it and the Grapevine published it with the title "Bronzed Mocassins" and an illustration of a pair of bronze mocassins. Eventually it was put in the Big Book, but the title was changed, and my guess is that they wanted to show that an alcoholic could be a professional and be an addict, but that wouldn't make him not an alcoholic. It worked well but maybe it overshot the mark, and now one of the most uncomfortable things for me is whIs there anything you regret having written in your story? en people run up to me at a meeting and tell me how glad they are the story is in the book. They say they've been fighting with their home group because their home group won't let them talk about drugs. So they show their group the story and they say, "By God, now you'll have to let me talk about drugs." And I really hate to see the story as a divisive thing. I don't think we came to AA to fight each other.

Well, I must say I'm really surprised at the number of people who come up to me and ask me confidentially if what they've heard on the very best authority--usually from their sponsor--is true: that there are things in my story I want to change, or that I regret having written it, or that I want to take it out because it says so much about drugs, or that I've completely changed my mind that AA is the answer or even that acceptance is the answer. I've also heard--on the best authority!--that I've died or gotten drunk or on pills. The latest one was that my wife Max died and that I got so depressed I got drunk. So, is there anything I'd like to change? No. I believe what I said more now than when I wrote it.

Do you think that your story might help those who are dually addicted?

I think it does. I think the story makes clear the truth that an alcoholic can also be an addict, and indeed that an alcoholic has a constitutional right to have as many problems as he wants! But I also think that if you're not an alcoholic, being an addict doesn't make you one. The way I see it, an alcoholic is a person who can't drink and who can't use drugs, and an addict is a person who can't use drugs and can't drink. But that doesn't mean that every AA meeting has to be open to a discussion of drugs if it doesn't want to. Every meeting has the right to say it doesn't want drugs discussed. People who want to discuss drugs have other places where they can go to talk about that. And AA is very open to giving the Steps and Traditions to other groups who want to use them. I know this from my own experience, because I wrote to the General Service Office and got permission to start Pills Anonymous and Chemical Dependency Anonymous. I did that when I was working in the field of chemical dependency. We started groups but I didn't go to them because I get everything I need from AA. I don't have any trouble staying away from talking about drugs, and I never introduce myself as an alcoholic/addict.

I'm annoyed--or maybe irritated is a better word--by the people who keep insisting that AA should broaden to include drugs and addictions other than alcohol. In fact I hear it said that AA should change its name to Addicts Anonymous. I find that a very narrow-minded view based on people's personal opinions and not on good sense. History tells us that the Washingtonians spread themselves so thin they evaporated. Jim B. says the greatest thing that ever happened in AA was the publication of the Big Book, because it put in writing what the program was and made it available all over the world. So wherever you go it's the same program. I don't see how you could change the program unless you changed the book and I can't see that happening.

It's a question of singleness of purpose?

(This interview will be continued in the February Issue of The Nightcap Stay tuned in.)

The bulletin board reflects local group information, District, Area and other information that is helpful to an AA member or group. This bulletin board is updated by the office staff on a regular basis

- If your group is struggling and needs some attention from other AA members in the city, stop by and talk with Virginia at the front desk, or Tomi, and the office can help you with a flyer to hand out and put in the Nightcap for distribution. We can place copies on the "free" literature shelf and give copies to the CSOR Meeting for distribution.
- Need contact information for an AA entity, stop by and check out the bulletin board or the free handouts on the shelves in the Fellowship Room. There is a notebook that holds information regarding conferences and events outside of the city.

The free literature shelves have flyers, booklets, and pamphlets with information about AA events and services.

- Drop off some flyers about your group's activities. You can make copies to distribute, by printing them here at the office. Copies are 5¢ a page to print.
- Free Pamphlets are available for your group or your service project. Pamphlets are in English and Spanish.
