Book Review

“AA In The Military”

Stories of experience, strength and hope from Grapevine.

AA in the military who have served in the military. The book begins with letters from the troops during World War II, when Grapevine first became a vital tool in keeping soldiers sober and connected to AA. The chapters that follow are filled with stories of experience, strength and hope—by both men and women—who served their country on land, sea and air. These personal accounts illustrate the challenges alcoholics in uniform encounter, often under difficult circumstances, far from loved ones.

The book concludes with a powerful selection of stories by our sober veteran members, titled “Coming Home.”

Resentments

There is an old story about a scorpion and a frog that applies to my AA Program. It seems that a scorpion, unable to swim, wished to cross a river. So he approached a frog and asked to be carried across. “Never,” said the frog, “You’ll sting me.” “No, indeed” argued the scorpion. “I’d only drown if I did that.”

“Okay,” said the frog, and Mr. Scorpion climbed on the frog’s back. In the middle of the river - zing! - the scorpion stung. As they were both going down, the frog asked, “Why did you do that?”

“It’s just my nature,” replied the scorpion.

Tradition Six (long form)

Problems of money, property, and authority may easily divert us from our primary spiritual aim. We think, therefore, that any considerable property of genuine use to A.A. should be separately incorporated and managed, thus dividing the material from the spiritual. An A.A. group, as such, should never go into business. Secondary aids to A.A., such as clubs or hospitals which require much property or administration, ought to be incorporated and so set apart that, if necessary, they can be freely discarded by the groups. Hence such facilities ought not to use the A.A. name. Their management should be the sole responsibility of those people who financially support them. For clubs, A.A. managers are usually preferred. But hospitals, as well as other places of recuperation, ought to be well outside A.A. — and medically supervised. While an A.A. group may cooperate with anyone, such cooperation ought never go so far as affiliation or endorsement, actual or implied. An A.A. group can bind itself to no one.

Permission to reprint The AA Grapevine, Inc., copyrighted material [in this publication, organization, or website] does not in any way imply affiliation with or endorsement by either Alcoholics Anonymous or The AA Grapevine, Inc.

Interview With the Author of "AA Taught Him to Handle Sobriety"

Third in a series of articles on authors of Big Book stories

Bob P. is the author of "AA Taught Him to Handle Sobriety," the final story in the Third Edition of the Big Book. A Grapevine staff member interviewed Bob by telephone at his winter home in Idaho.

If you had the opportunity, would you write your Big Book story differently?

I don't think so. I hadn't read that story for maybe fifteen years, and a few months ago I was in a meeting where the person chairing closed by reading the last few paragraphs of my story. I didn't even realize it was my story when he started to read because I hadn't read it in so long. And as he read it, I thought, "My God, that's good!" [Laughter] So I went back and read it again.

I think the only thing I'd change is to say, as we do to the newcomers, "It gets better all the time." I'd like to have expressed that more than I did, but probably everybody'd say "Oh bull!"

It's a good message to hear, that long-term sobriety is possible and that things do get better. How long have you been sober now? Thirty-three years. Out here in Idaho, there are a lot of young people, and to them I'm some sort of icon because of thirty-three years' sobriety. But I go to other parts of the country where, hell, that's not so much. I have a friend down in Florida who has fifty-four years, and he looks at me as a newcomer.

How did your story come to appear in the Big Book?

It was published first in the Grapevine, and then Dr. Jack --Dr. Jack Norris, who was [Class A] chairman of the board of trustees at that time--he read it and he said, "Let's put that in the Third Edition." And he'd heard me talk, and he knew I always talked about how to handle sobriety. But I was really shocked when my story was put in with the stories of those who'd lost everything. I didn't feel that way at the time.

Did you think you were in another category?

I wouldn't be alive if it weren't for AA, but I was in such denial. I was so arrogant and self-centered and egotistical when I came in that I didn't think I'd lost anything. But I've since realized that I was absolutely at the bottom. In fact, I miraculously survived what is almost always a fatal illness or problem--esophageal varices or esophageal hemorrhaging from cirrhosis of the liver. After I'd been sober maybe ten or fifteen years, I went to the same hospital in Greenwich where I'd been hospitalized for this bleeding in the latter days of my drinking. I was having a minor operation--getting a mole removed or something--and when I went to do the intake, I gave my name to the woman in charge, who was a nurse, and she looked up at me and said, "I remember you." I said, "How could you remember me?" She said, "You were in the west wing, on the fifth floor, with internal bleeding." I said, "You must see hundreds of people in and out of the hospital with this thing." And she said, "Oh no, they all die."

At the end of your story you talk about being addicted to fantasy, and you say that in sobriety you've been able to embrace reality. But have there been times during your thirty-three years when you were less than thrilled to be embracing reality?

Not really, though I've had all the usual things that happen to you in life--my parents have died and things didn't always go the way I planned. I always loved the idea that "life is what happens while you're making other plans." But I've never failed to find some good thing to be thankful to God about. Maybe that sounds awfully Pollyanna-ish, but that's the honest-to-God fact of the case. I was especially blessed by being a trustee and then by being the general manager of the General Service Office for ten years. What an incredible experience that was.

Since leaving your position as general manager, what kind of AA activity have you been involved with?

I have home groups in Connecticut and Idaho and in Florida, and I still go to at least three meetings a week, sometimes more. And I'm sort of a convention freak. I love to go to AA gatherings--I got into that habit when I was at GSO and was going to them about every other week.

Do you haReprint from The AA Grapevine, Inc.,

I've always had a sponsor. In fact I've survived three sponsors. The one I have now is still around--it's "attitude of gratitude" Hal M. down in Washington. I'm his sponsor and he's my sponsor. I had a wonderful sponsor out here, a past delegate from Idaho, lived down in Twin Falls, a fellow named Joe C. He died five years ago. He had less sobriety than I did by ten years or more but I picked him because he was the most devoted, loving, caring AA that I'd ever met. He was taken away with galloping leukemia about thirty days after he went to the doctor. And during that time, I told him, "Joe, you've helped teach so many people how to live and now, by God, you're teaching us all how to die." And he did. He was optimistic and full of gratitude and peace and love up until the time that he died. He was still going to AA meetings two days before he died.

Do you have sponsees?

I do but I'm not a very good sponsor because I'm kind of impatient and irritable with newcomers. I always think they should do more than they do. But there are a number of people I've been able to help get started in AA, and then I turn them over to somebody else or they turn themselves over to somebody else. Part of the reason for that is that we have two homes so I don't have much real continuity with sponsees.

In thirty-three years have you noticed any great changes in the way AA is going or the way meetings are conducted?

At my last talk at the General Service Conference, I bore down heavily on the fact that the biggest enemy of AA at that time was its growing rigidity. I still think it's much more rigid than when I came in, and a hell of a lot more rigid than Bill Wilson ever envisioned it.

What would be an example of increasing rigidity?

I was particularly ticked off at that time by the rigidity of the General Service Conference itself. For example, some people were unhappy about the fact that at the end of the chapter in the Big Book "To Wives," there are two paragraphs that refer to Al-Anon for those people who want that kind of help. One man said we couldn't do that because it was affiliation. This thing was debated for an hour on the Conference floor as to whether it was proper within our Traditions to have a paragraph in the Big Book referring to Al-Anon. They finally compromised by directing that the offending mention be put in a size smaller type and moved down two inches! Really!

Speaking of the Traditions, what was your impression of Bill W.?

Message From the DCMS

District 1A is actively committed to AA Service. We have filled all of our elected positions and are currently seeking liaisons to the committees of the SA Inter-District (SAID.) These liaisons will attend scheduled meetings and report back to the district regarding their activities, discussions and concerns. Our budget is in place and includes funding for upcoming workshops. Halt on Tezel Road has agreed to host a workshop for Grapevine/La Vina in July.
